PROFILE-SPECIFIC DECISIONS

PERSONALIZED FINDINGS

Concrete decisions generated from the traveler profile, with the reason, recommended action, and evidence confidence kept together.

1

DO NOW

MEDIUM CONFIDENCE

U.S. travelers should verify visa or transit eligibility before booking around China.

Finding

U.S. ordinary passport travelers should not assume ordinary tourism entry is visa-free. For short China stops, the 240-hour transit-without-visa route may apply only when the itinerary, ports, nationality, documents, and onward third-country ticket all match the rule.

Why this traveler

United States traveler entering through Shanghai, with trip band 8-14 and route Shanghai, Beijing.

Generated decision

Marked do now with medium confidence because Entry is the highest-cost failure point: a wrong assumption can stop the trip at airline check-in or border inspection.

ACTION LIST

- Confirm whether the trip is ordinary China tourism or a true transit to a third country or region.
- If using transit without visa, check eligible nationality, entry port, exit plan, confirmed onward ticket, and permitted stay area.
- If the route is not a qualifying transit, verify the visa path before buying nonrefundable flights or hotels.
